The Blind Boy

Colley Cibber

• Summary:

To be able to see the goodness around, to be able to greet friends and family on seeing them, to be able to see the world around -the blue sky, the green trees, the colourful birds, the blooming of flowers, the blossoming of fruits have always been a blessing to each one of us. The poet, Colley Cibber has tried to portray the positive or the optimistic views of a blind boy who has never seen the sun but has felt its warmth. Day or night makes no difference to him, he calls it daytime whenever he is awake and is playing and calls it night when he is fast asleep with his eyes closed. Sometimes, he often hears people pitying him for his sightlessness and to them he would like to assure that he has the patience to bear with a loss, he does not know. He considers himself no less than a king when it comes to the cheerfulness of his mind. He says he has the song of happiness in his heart even though he is deprived of sight.
